Assistant Postmaster General Whitfield has received from the postmaster at Baird, Cala-Confederate flag incident. He says that at

SKETCH OF AN HONORED MAN'S CAREER located the county fair was in progress at the time the flag is said to have been flying over the building in which the postoffice is Baird. In honor of that event the citizens decorated their places of business and dis-played as many flags and as much bunting as they could conveniently obtain. In con-sequence of the great demand the supply of United States flags became exhausted, and the ewner of the building in which the postoffice is located, in order to complete his decorations, procured some bunting and had his sister make a flag. With only an imperfect knowledge of how the United States fiag is fashioned, the result of her labor was a complete failure except as a display of bunting. Instead of 13 stripes her flag had only three, with nine stars in the blue field. But it answered the pur-pose, and was hoisted over the postoffice building.

This is the postmaster's explanation. General Whitfield, however, is in possession of the affidavits of five reputable peo-ple who declare that on several specified dates they saw the Confederate flag strung over the postoffice building, and that they were told by citizens of the town that it was a Confederate flag. But inasmuch as the postmaster declares that the flag was not a Confederate flag, and was not purposely made to resemble one, and expresses deep regret that he had done anything that could be construed as a disloyal act to the Government, he is inclined to let the inci-
